

Restorative Practices Teacher Survey

Restorative Practices is all about building relationships and holding students accountable by doing things with them, rather than to them, or for them, or not at all. "Human beings change behavior based on bonds they form with others."

Question	Yes	No	Sometimes
I understand the underlying premise of Restorative Practices
I understand and Use Affective Statements
I feel comfortable using "I" messages
I understand and use Affective Questions
I have used Impromptu Conferences with students
I have tried using a Circle in my classroom
I use Circles on a regular basis in my classroom
I am familiar with Restorative Practices Formal Conferences
I have participated in a Restorative Practices Formal Conference

- Component four of the TUSD Post-Unitary Status Plan addresses a Restorative School Culture and Climate.
- The TUSD Goal is to implement a district- wide restorative culture and climate that convey respect, support, and a sense of belonging to all students.
- It would include a shift from a culture of punishment to one of discipline that focuses on teaching students how to behave responsibly when confronted with conflicts.
- It would assist students to learn appropriate problem-solving strategies that will help them become responsible and caring adults.